Touching the body of someone who died from infectious disease is very risky. Always ask for professional help and advice before burying dead bodies.